REPLY COMMENTS

L.M. Communications, Inc. ("LM"), by its attorneys and pursuant to the above-captioned Notice of Proposed Rule Making, ("NPRM"), hereby submits its reply comments in opposition to the proposed reallocation of Channel 296A from Danville, Kentucky, to Nonesuch, Kentucky.¹ Because Nonesuch, Kentucky is not a community for allotment purposes, the Commission should not adopt the proposed channel allotment.

I. The Meager Evidence Petitioner Provides Fails To Establish That Nonesuch, Kentucky Is Entitled To Community Status.

In the NPRM, the Commission observed that "staff research failed to locate any information supporting community status for Nonesuch" and requested the Petitioner to provide evidence supporting community status for Nonesuch. NPRM at ¶ 3. The information Petitioner includes in its September 17, 2001 comments with respect to Nonesuch is woefully deficient in this regard. All that the information submitted by Petitioner demonstrates is that Nonesuch is a rural neighborhood on the outskirts of Versailles, Kentucky that is serviced by businesses, organizations, schools and churches located in Versailles and in other parts of Woodford County.

It is well settled that a community for allotment purposes is defined as a geographically identifiable population grouping. See 47 U.S.C. § 307(b); Revision of FM Assignment Policies and Procedures, 90 FCC 2d 88 (1982). The Commission generally finds that "if a community is incorporated or is listed in the U.S. Census, that is sufficient to demonstrate its status." Wallace, Idaho and Bigfork, Montana, 13 FCC Rcd 16278, 16279 (1998). However, in cases such as this one where a community is neither incorporated nor listed in the census, the petitioner of the proposed allotment must supply information adequate to establish that the particular community is a geographically identifiable population grouping and therefore a community for allotment purposes. See Kenansville, Florida, 10 FCC Rcd 9831, 9832 (1995) ("Kenansville"). Further, it is critical that the petitioner show that there is a nexus between the social, economic, and governmental organizations and the particular community. See e.g., Avon, North Carolina, 14 FCC Rcd 3939 (1999); Pleasant Dale, Nebraska, 14 FCC Rcd 18893 (M. Media Bureau 1999); NPRM at ¶ 3 n.1.

In the NPRM, the Commission observed that "[a]lthough Clear Channel indicated there are some businesses in Nonesuch, it has not identified those entities with addresses or shown that they are intended to serve residents of Nonesuch as opposed to other areas. Clear Channel should show that the organizations, civic groups, churches, schools, police, etc. have a nexus with Nonesuch." Id. In its Petition and Comments, Petitioner asserts that Nonesuch is "an identifiable community of more than 50 homes" with a "year-round population" and "several retail businesses." Petition at 2 and Comments at 4. Significantly, however, Clear Channel provides no information to show that these "several retail businesses" are intended to serve residents of Nonesuch -- a deficiency which is "critical" under Commission precedent. See, e.g., Lupton, Michigan, 11 FCC Rcd 14428, 14429 (1996). Further, Clear Channel has failed to identify any organizations, civic groups, schools, or churches that are even located in Nonesuch, let alone have any nexus with Nonesuch as a separate community.

Petitioner fails to cite any definitive facts supporting community status for Nonesuch, such as a population number, local government, elected officials, zip code, postal office, area code, or municipal services. In fact, the County of Woodford, which includes the cities of Versailles and Midway, Kentucky, provides for all of the needs of Nonesuch as well as other nearby unincorporated localities. See Exhibit A. For example, the Woodford County Chamber of Commerce lists all of the schools and churches in Woodford county as being located in either Versailles or Midway. Id. In addition, Woodford County contains several child care centers, two libraries, private schools, and a college, all located in either Versailles or Midway. Id. Police, fire, and other municipal services are provided by the county. Id.

In its Comments, Petitioner asserts that there are a number of "objective indications of the existence of a common perception that [Nonesuch's] populace constitutes a distinct" community. Comments at 4. Among the "several retail businesses" cited by Petitioner were the Irish Acres Antique Gallery and the Glitz Restaurant (located at the same address), and a local general store and deli. Petition at 2. Petitioner provides no evidence that any of these businesses are intended to serve Nonesuch specifically as opposed to the larger communities of Versailles and Midway. In fact, the addresses for both the Irish Acres Antique Gallery and the Glitz Restaurant are listed as Versailles, Kentucky. In addition, the bed and breakfast listed by Petitioner, the Western Fields Guest Cottage, also has an address of Versailles, Kentucky. See Exhibit B. The only information about these businesses that Clear Channel includes is an article about the antique gallery and restaurant that are housed together. This article makes clear that these businesses have no specific nexus to Nonesuch or even to Versailles. They are intended to serve all of Woodford County, especially tourists visiting the area.

Although Petitioner actually acknowledges that "precise population figures for Nonesuch are not available" (Comments at 4), Petitioner asserts that Nonesuch is a voting precinct and provides a statement from the Woodford County Clerk that there are "850 register [sic] voters in Nonesuch precinct." Comments at Exhibit 3. However, Petitioner fails to note that the "voting precinct" is essentially one of several voting booths for Woodford County and that Nonesuch does not have its own local government. There is no Commission precedent suggesting that the mere location of a voting precinct in a particular neighborhood is sufficient to establish community status. Additionally, the fact that a branch of the Woodford County fire department is located in Nonesuch does not provide evidence of a separate community. The county fire department has several branches, which are located throughout the county in places to ensure that all county residents receive adequate services from the fire department. In materials published by the Chamber of Congress for Woodford County, the only communities listed with separate fire departments are Versailles and Midway. See Exhibit A.

Petitioner also provides incomplete and misleading information about residents of Nonesuch. For example, in its Comments, Petitioner asserts that "[a] dozen Nonesuch residents have attested to their belief that Nonesuch 'is a separate community.'" Comments at 8-9.

Petitioner then includes twelve declarations signed by "Nonesuch residents" attesting to its community status. Comments at Exhibit 12. Interestingly, eleven of these declarations merely list a street address and do not include a city, state or zip code. Only one declaration (signed by Ms. Suzanne Mathis of 4860 Fords Mill Road) lists a full address with Nonesuch, Kentucky as the city and state. However, the United States Postal Service ("USPS") lists all of these addresses, including Ms. Suzanne Mathis' address, as located in Versailles, Kentucky with a Versailles-designated zip code of 40383. Attached hereto as Exhibit C are the declarations listed in Petitioner's Comments with the USPS on-line zip code lookup placed directly behind each declaration. The USPS lists each of these addresses as located in Versailles, Kentucky, zip code 40383.

A physical examination of the neighborhood Petitioner describes as the community of Nonesuch also makes clear that Nonesuch is not a separate and distinct community. Nonesuch is a rural area with a few houses near the intersection of Cummins Ferry Road and Fords Mill Road. See Exhibit D. The speed limit throughout the area and near this intersection is 55 miles per hour and there are no traffic lights -- evidencing that there is no separate populated and busy business area through which cars would need to pass at a lower speed. See Exhibit D. LM has also obtained declarations and affidavits from individuals who reside in the Nonesuch neighborhood stating that they work, shop, and send their children to school in nearby cities, including Versailles and Lexington, and they do not consider Nonesuch to be a separate, distinct and independent community. See Exhibit E. In sum, the information submitted by Petitioner as well as the information included herein demonstrates that Nonesuch is merely a rural neighborhood adjacent to and served by the larger city of Versailles, Kentucky, which has a population of 7,269 as listed in the 2000 Rand McNally Road Atlas. The 2000 Rand McNally Road Atlas does not even list Nonesuch as a city or town. There is already an FM station licensed to Versailles -- WCDA(FM). Thus, Petitioner's proposal will not result in a preferential arrangement of allotments by providing first local service.

II. Commission Precedent Compels That The Proposed Allotment Be Dismissed.

The Commission has concluded that numerous unincorporated towns which evidence substantially more characteristics of community status than Nonesuch does do not qualify as communities for allotment purposes. To grant Petitioner's proposal would be squarely inconsistent with this precedent. For example, in reviewing a proposal to allot a channel to Kanarraville, Utah, the Commission noted that Kanarraville had a post office, zip code, Mayor, Town Clerk, Town Council, Fire Department Association, several retail businesses and several churches. 14 FCC Rcd 15962 (1999). Nonetheless, the Commission concluded that Kanarraville did not qualify as a community for allotment purposes because, like Petitioner, the proponent failed to show that the local businesses and churches located in the community were intended to serve Kanarraville as opposed to other areas. Id. at 15962. The Commission emphasized that the proponent had "not provided the names or addresses of any social or civic organizations, schools, libraries or other governmental services which are located within Kanarraville." Id. at 15963

Similarly, the Commission rejected a proposal to allot a channel to Broadview, Montana despite the proponent's demonstration that Broadview contained a post office, city government, two churches, gas station/market, community center, Lions club, volunteer fire company, school, and two taverns. Broadview, Montana, 14 FCC Rcd 14101 (1999). As in Kanarraville, Utah, the Commission concluded that the proposal was critically deficient because "a nexus [had] not been shown between the political, social and commercial organizations and the community in question." Id.

The Commission also determined that Gaviota, California was not a community for allotment purposes. Gaviota, California, 16 FCC Rcd 1518 (2000). Although Gaviota had its own school, volunteer fire department, and fifteen businesses listing Gaviota as their mailing address and was mentioned in the "Guide to Santa Barbara County" publication, the Commission nonetheless found no nexus between these entities and the Gaviota residents. Id. at 1522. As is the case with Nonesuch, the County of Santa Barbara provided municipal services to the residents of Gaviota and to other unincorporated areas of the County and an overwhelming majority of the businesses listed by the petitioner were attributed to other local cities. None contained a Gaviota address. Thus, the Commission concluded that "it cannot be evidenced that those entities have a nexus" with the proposed community. Id. at 1522.

Like the proposals in Gaviota, California; Kanarraville, Utah and Broadview, Montana, the instant proposal is critically deficient because Petitioner fails to demonstrate any nexus between the few retail businesses it lists as being located in Nonesuch and the proposed community. None of the businesses or persons interviewed have addresses located in Nonesuch. Moreover, no schools, civic organizations, churches, or municipal service providers are located in Nonesuch. See also e.g., Avon, North, Carolina, 14 FCC Rcd 3939 (M. Media Bureau 1999) (no information as to any social or civic organizations, school, libraries or other governmental services located in Avon; no nexus shown); Ellison Bay, Wisconsin, 9 FCC Rcd 2327 (M. Media Bureau 1994) (although community post office, many businesses and schools noted, no nexus established); Lupton, Michigan, 11 FCC Rcd 14428 (M. Media Bureau 1996) (although some local businesses, churches, and a school, no nexus shown).

The precedent on which Petitioner relies in asserting that Nonesuch is a community for allotment purposes is inapposite. In Kenansville, Florida, the Commission explained that although Kenansville did not have a local government, it had two indicia of community status: seven civic organizations with Kenansville in their names and a significant number of business located in Kenansville. 10 FCC Rcd 9831, 9833 (1995). In particular, the Commission found that "Osceola County, of which Kenansville is a part, has issued licenses for at least 30 businesses in Kenansville, including three restaurants and a motel." Id. In contrast, none of the businesses listed by Petitioner include "Nonesuch" in their names and Petitioner failed to list any civic organizations. Moreover, the post office addresses of all the businesses cited by Petitioner are in Versailles. See Exhibit B.

In Redwood Mississippi, 13 FCC Rcd 13886 (1998), the Commission relied on the fact that several local businesses identified themselves with Redwood and had Redwood addresses. Redwood also has its own post office, elementary school, the Redwood United Methodist Church, a volunteer fire department, and some of its own municipal services, including electricity. Id. at 13886-87. Similarly, in retaining an allotment for Semora, North Carolina, the Commission explained that Semora had its own fire department and post office and several social and business establishments. In re Implementation of BC Docket 80-90, 61 RR 2d 26, 31 (1986). In contrast, the businesses petitioner identifies in its comments have Versailles addresses. Petitioner lists no schools, churches, post office, civic organization, or municipal services that have any distinct nexus to Nonesuch.

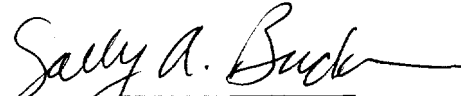

CONCLUSION

It is abundantly clear that the totality of evidence submitted by the Petitioner fails to establish that Nonesuch is a community for allotment purposes and that any new allotment to this area would actually be a second allotment to Versailles, Kentucky. Thus, for the reasons set forth herein, LM respectfully requests that the Petition for Rule Making to reallocate Channel 296A from Danville, Kentucky, to Nonesuch, Kentucky be denied.

Respectfully submitted,

L.M. COMMUNICATIONS, INC.
